Under normal circumstances, the base station will not actively shut down, but will automatically turn off the screen and enter low-power mode. Q: How to turn off a robot or base station?

A: 1. Robotic home cleaning devices require regular charging, and their docking stations or charging pads must be placed near accessible electrical outlets. Installing these outlets in strategic locations helps streamline the operation of your devices and reduces the need for long cords or awkward. Today I've got three different automatic fill and drain systems from Roborock, Narwal, and SwitchBot and I'm going to show you the installation options and process for each one, run them through a full set of vacuum and mop tests, and help you decide if these are a good choice for your house. The fully automatic smart all-in-one station supports all-in-one multi-dimensional functions such as auto dust collection, pad washing, hot dry and refill. Dust collection frequency and mop cleaning modes can also be set for completely. Robot cannot be charged when being powered OFF. Before you start, make sure that: Your mobile phone is connected to a Wi-Fi network. 4GHz band wireless signal is enabled on your router.
