

Seamless switch from mains to solar power generation

Overview

When adding solar PV and inverters to your power setup, an automatic changeover switch for solar system makes life much safer and easier. It seamlessly shifts between grid and solar power—or solar and inverter—without manual intervention, protecting your equipment and simplifying. As energy prices fluctuate and grid reliability becomes less predictable, homeowners and small businesses are searching for smarter ways to manage power. Solar panels alone are no longer enough; energy storage and intelligent control are now essential. These make sure the signal stays strong. Your system switches to mains or generators.
